Thought for the Week

"No one has ever become poor by giving - Helen Keller"

THE DEEP END - Credible witness

It's hard to know what, or who, to believe any more. During the recent US presidential race, 'fact checking' became something of a buzzword. After each of the major debates, newspapers and news sites churned out articles investigating the validity of the candidates' claims. Research was rapidly carried out, sources were checked, statements from the past were dragged up to prove or disprove many a point. With the internet making it possible to 'fact-check' in mere minutes, it is so easy to be caught out. Those in public life have to be more careful than ever that they are speaking the truth, that they are not contradicting what they have said previously, and that they can back up their statements with authoritative evidence.

John the Baptist may not have been subject to such rigorous 'fact checking', but he was at pains to explain the source of his authority: 'I saw the Spirit coming down on him from heaven ... I have seen and I am the witness'. John knew that people might not immediately take him seriously, so twice he emphasised that he did not know Jesus himself. He was not out to trick or mislead people. We can believe what this first witness says about who Jesus is, because his words come directly from God.

New Pilgrim Path Website of the Week: Monasteries of the Heart

"Monasteries of the Heart" is a website created to address a growing demand for a spiritual program that enables lay people to implement Benedictine values into their daily lives. The movement is open to anyone -regardless, or even in the absence of a faith tradition - who desires to seek God through a Benedictine way of life. Access this and many other rich online Christian websites via www.NewPilgrimPath.ie.
