EXAM TIME

We wish all our young people well in their examinations beginning this week. Much hard study has been done and may you do well. We will keep you in our prayers.

Dear Lord, as I take this exam, I thank you that my value is not based on my performance, but on your great love for me.

Come into my heart so that we can walk through this time together. Help me, not only with this test, but the many tests of life that are sure to come my way.

As I take this exam, bring back to my mind everything I studied and be gracious with what I have overlooked. Help me to remain focussed and calm, confident in the facts and in my ability, and firm in the knowledge that no matter what happens today you are there with me. Amen.

BRINGING PEOPLE TOGETHER AROUND THE WORD OF GOD.

Greetings from St. Paul's Arran Quay.

We are delighted to host the Opening Ceremony of Ecumenical Bible Week 2019 on Monday 10th June. In particular, I would like you to advertise let anyone who is free or works in the city centre to come to our Opening Prayer Breakfast on Monday 10th June in St. Paul's Church, Arran Quay. Speakers are Fr Bryan Shortall Ofm Cap and Sean Mullan – who are based in this area of the city. Starts at 7:00am and ends at 8:15am. It is a great opportunity to visit one of the hidden gems of Church in Dublin.

Now in its sixth year, the Ecumenical Bible Week 2019 takes place in the Dublin area from Pentecost to Trinity Sunday, June 9-16. It combines parish-based programmes with centralised “events”. The theme this year is taken from 1 Peter 3:15: “Always be ready to give an answer for the hope you possess.” All are welcome as we gather around the Word of God. You can also find out about our Symposium and Thinking Allowed Forum which takes place on Thursday 13th June in Cloniffe College. All details on www.bibleweek.ie

This successful and exciting venture is supported by the Archdiocese of Dublin and The United Dioceses of Dublin and Glendalough as well as by the National Bible Society of Ireland and Scripture Union Ireland.

Thought for the Week

“The most important thing in communication is hearing what isn't being said” - Peter Drucker, Management Consultant

The Deep End - O Captain! My Captain!

The final scene of the movie, Dead Poets Society, is one of the most moving in modern cinema. Beloved teacher, Mr Keating (played by the late Robin Williams), is saying a final farewell to his students, who have been inspired by his unorthodox teaching methods and his encouragement to make your lives extraordinary. As he leaves the classroom, the students, in defiance of their strict headmaster, stand on their desks and salute him with the words, 'O Captain! My Captain!' – referring to a poem he taught them.

Goodbyes are often emotional, particularly if we know we might not see the other person again for a long time, if ever. In films and TV programmes, a farewell scene can be a pivotal moment, or even the climax of the drama. Sometimes, when characters say goodbye to each other, we see a shot of one of them left behind, bereft, gazing into the distance after their loved one. In this context, one line in today's first reading always grabs my attention: 'They were still staring into the sky.' The apostles had just witnessed Jesus being 'lifted up' and taken from their sight. They had lost him once with his death, and now they are losing him a second time, after precious time spent with him following his resurrection.

But the scene in today's first reading for the Ascension is no ordinary goodbye. It is not a dramatic scene written for a film script. In fact, Jesus does not seem to say goodbye at all. His last words are a promise to the disciples: the Holy Spirit will be with them as they set out on their mission. They have not been left alone.

'A Word of Truth and Hope', a resource pack for Parish Pastoral Councils and other parish groups, prepared by the Council for Marriage and the Family, following last August's celebration of the World Meeting of the Families and the visit of Pope Francis to Ireland, published by Veritas, is available through Veritas. It proposes a vision for the family which might shape our response as people of faith, and as citizens, to the diverse needs and challenges experienced in families in Ireland today. Many of the questions addressed in the publication are the same questions which exercised the Government's Commission on the Family between 1995 - 1998. The primary objective of that Commission was to examine how public policy could best support and help families in the changing demographics of the day. www.veritas.ie

Quotes from the Letter of Pope Francis for World Day of Social Communications

"Ever since the internet first became available, the Church has always sought to promote its use in the service of the encounter between persons and a solidarity among all".

"We need to recognise how social networks, on the one hand, help us to better connect, rediscover, and assist one another, but on the other hand, lend themselves to the manipulation of personal data".

"Statistics show that among young people one in four is involved in episodes of cypher bullying. Young people are the ones most exposed to the illusion that the social web can completely satisfy them on a relationship level".

"While governments seek legal ways to regulate the web and to protect the original vision of a free, open and secure network we all have the responsibility to promote its positive use".
